

DEAR NEIGHBOR,

As your councilmember, I have listened to our residents and been your voice on the council to make San Jose a better place to live. By building relationships with Mayor Mahan and other esteemed colleagues, we have worked to make our city safer, cleaner, and more accountable.

I have led on the issues you care about most: an in-depth audit on homelessness, reducing spending and opposing new taxes, clearing encampments and creating no re-encampment zones, hiring more police officers to open our Southern Police Station, preserving lifesaving units of our fire department, improved traffic safety near schools, streamlining permits, and advocating for working class residents. Recently, I successfully blocked a plan to place a jail diversion facility in our community, protecting our neighborhoods' safety and character.

Our work is not done.

I spent decades working in high-tech at companies like IBM and Intel, managing diverse, multinational teams focused on solving problems. Today, I use those skills to find common-sense and cost-effective solutions to the challenges facing District 10.
